STEEL MERGER WAR NEAR ZERO HOUR

ILLINOIS AT POLLS TUESDAY TO DECIDE SENATE CANDIDATE

Colorful Campaign Draws Millions To Ballot Box

CHICAGO, April 8.—Millions of Illinois voters tramped to the polls today to decide the most spectacular primary the state has ever experienced—a contest that has pitted a brainy, resourceful woman against a skilled politician of the old school.

By nightfall they will have determined whether Ruth Hanna McCormick is to be the Republican nominee for the senate, or whether it is to be Senator Charles S. Deneen, a two-time governor, who has been a power in Illinois affairs for more than a quarter of a century.

It is an engrossing contest. Mrs. McCormick is the first of her sex to make a real bid for the senate. Moreover, she is the daughter of one famous senator, Mark Hanna, the widow of another, Medill McCormick. And as she is running against a man who defeated her late husband, the situation offers a vehicle of a first class drama.

The surface odds, betting, climatic and otherwise, favored the woman as the trek to the polls began at sunrise this morning. The so-called wise money in the Loop was being wagered eight against five that she will defeat Deneen. And the betting is considerable.

Yet notwithstanding the betting and the confidence of Mrs. McCormick's friends, there existed today in many quarters a vast uncertainty over the outcome, and the feeling that the McCormick-Deneen contest is "a horse race."

The Deneen camp is just as confident as the McCormick camp. And it is a confidence born of many years of practical politics.

As the campaign ended there were strange tales of deals and bargains and combinations afloat. The factions are many and the feeling intense, and to this puzzling potpourri is added the bewildering complexities of ward leaders' contests, party central committee fights, and aldermanic trades.

The weather was fair throughout the state, and that was supposed to be a happy omen for Mrs. McCormick. She campaigned throughout the state's 102 counties, lambasting Senator Deneen's record from stem to stern, with particular emphasis upon his vote for American adherence to the League court.

Her supporters count upon her coming up to the Cook County line with an even break or better, and here in Cook County (Chicago) they are depending upon a margin of from 50,000 to 100,000 votes.

The fact that few of the McCormick leaders predict a margin of victory greater than 100,000 in a total vote of several millions is in itself eloquent testimony to the closeness of the struggle.

Both sides are watchful and alert. The closeness of the contest

LOMBARD AND KNOX COLLEGES TO MERGE

GALESBURG, Ill., April 8—Plans were being formulated here today for a merger of Knox and Lombard Colleges, two of the oldest educational institutions in the state and rivals for three quarters of a century.

In a joint statement issued by the presidents of both colleges it was announced that executive committees of the two boards of trustees have voted in favor of the union.

"One college can serve the educational need here as well as two," Presidents George Davis and Albert Britt declared. "In education as elsewhere co-operation instead of division is needed. By getting together we can do a better piece of work."

The Knox campus is to be used by the combined colleges.

SCHOOL BOY WINS

CLEVELAND, O., April 8.—Elmo Spring, of Hillards High School today had won first prize in the state farm account contest which was sponsored by the Ohio-Pennsylvania Joint Stock Bank here according to announcement by officials of that organization. The award is $100 in cash and a gold medal.

"SCAR" REMOVED

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—What was regarded by many as a "war scar" today had been removed by action of the city council here.

When anti-German sentiment was at its height at the start of the World War, the name of a southside public park was changed from Schiller to Washington.

Petitions from residents in that vicinity asked that the park be again named after the famous German poet and the council acquiesced.

ELECTION SHOOTING WOUNDS BYSTANDER; THWART KIDNAPING

Police Seeking To Prevent Election Day Violence

CHICAGO, April 8.—While Police Commissioner William Russell was putting into effect his plans to prevent election violence George Rudolph, 56, was struck and seriously wounded by a stray bullet today during a quarrel which was believed due to an election difference.

Rudolph was shot down when four men tried to force John Kelly to help them locate Clarence Haggerty, a precinct captain. Kelly broke away from them and as he ran all four drew revolvers and began shooting. One of the bullets struck Rudolph.

Police arrested three men shortly afterward and they were identified as the assailants.

Further election gun play was reported by Alderman Sheldon W. Govier, candidate for Democratic ward committeeman, who was en route with his nephew and two followers to his home today when his automobile was forced to the curb by a machine filled with gunmen.

Brandishing revolvers, seven men leaped from the car and were preparnig to kidnap the alderman when a detective squad arrived, scattering the gang. Three of the gunmen sought refuge in a nearby house and were arrested.

SUCCESS ANYWAY

Even if he didn't succeed in reaching New York on a non-stop flight from Los Angeles, Albert M. Mooney, Wichita, Kan., aviator, is happy because he believes he has set a record for light planes by flying from Los Angeles to Fort Wayne, Ind., in 22 hours and 23 minutes before being forced down. Photo shows him at Fort Wayne.

TARIFF RATE FIGHT SWINGING TOWARD HOUSE PREFERENCE

Conferees Favoring Higher House Rate On Pig Iron

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The tariff pendulum appeared swinging toward house rates today following the action of the tariff conferees in approving the higher house rate of $1.12 1-2 a ton on pig-iron.

This rate, now the existing law, was slashed by the senate to seventy-five cents a ton at the time Democrats and Insurgents were condemning activities of Senator Joseph R. Grundy (R) of Pa., the so-called "grand-daddy of all lobbyists." In conference, however, the senate conferees receded and approved the higher house rate.

Other agreements were evenly divided between senate and house rates.

The senate rates approved were: grindstones on free list; etched glass for photographic purposes, 55 per cent; rolled glass, containing wire netting in itself, 1 1-2 cents a pound; bottles and jars for toilet preparations, if made by machine, 25 per cent; if made otherwise, 75 per cent advalorem. All senate rates on illuminating articles were adopted.

The house victories included: a minimum rate of 50 per cent on cylinder, crown and sheet glass; and the same rate on optical glass.

Some of the compromises were: a minimum rate of 15 cents per square foot on plate, cylinder, crown and sheet glass made into mirrors; 30 per cent on crystalline and $1.65 a pound on crystalline flake.

DESTROYER SENT TO AID MISSIONARIES

SHANGHAI, April 8.—A brigade of infantry which has been operating near Hokan has been dispatched to Kiukiang, in Kiangsi province, reported to be threatened by a bandit army under the notorious Chu Teh. The troops are moving on order of President Chiang Kaishek, at Nanking.

Many foreign missionaries who had been forced to abandon their missions in the interior because of the bandit depredations, are concentrated at Kiu Kiang.

It also was reported that an American destroyer had been ordered up the river to protect the missionaries.

SHOOTS BRIDE OF MONTH, KILLS SELF

NEW ORLEANS, April 8.—After probably fatally wounding his 23-year-old bride of a month, Solon Rogers, 29, salesman for a Memphis steel company, killed himself today with a pistol.

The woman said she and her husband had agreed to separate this morning and had come to a complete understanding about the matter. She is not expected to recover.

JURY INDICTS 35 IN PROBE OF "JAKE"

COVINGTON, Ky., April 8.—Thirty-five men today stand indicted by a federal grand jury which made an exhaustive probe into the sale of Jamaica ginger for beverage purposes here.

This climaxed the epidemic of paralysis in this area, where two persons died and more than three score others were stricken.

The names of those indicted were not disclosed. J. T. Tartar, deputy dry administrator here, is authority for the statement that the indictments may cause the arrest of men in Cincinnati, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis as well as local alleged conspirators.

SLAYER OF MOTHER GOES TO GALLOWS

LONDON, April 8.—Sidney Harry Fox, 26, "took an 8 o'clock walk" this morning in Maidstone jail.

That is grim slang of the English streets meaning Sidney Fox was hung, having been convicted by the crown of matricide. He had strangled his mother to death and set fire to their room in fashionable Margate Hotel, then sought to collect her life insurance.

Young and handsome, he went to his death without a murmur.

Yesterday the courts granted a divorce to Captain George Alfred Morse from his wife on the grounds that she had been intimate with Fox two years before.

FORCE HONEYMOON

CHICAGO, April 8—Joseph Enslin and his wife, Amelia, both 65 years old, embarked on a second honeymoon today on the orders of Judge Joseph Sabath.

A month ago the court ordered the thirty-day honeymoon when Mrs. Enslin asked separate maintenance. Yesterday they were arraigned for failure to fulfill the court's order.

"You have to take that honeymoon, now go," was the judge's command.

TWO KILLED, THREE HURT AS TRACTION HITS AUTO

Injured May Die; Miners Struck On Way To Work

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 8.—Two mine workers were killed and three others probably were fatally injured today when the auto in which they were enroute to work at the mines was struck by a traction car at Nanticoke, near here.

Louis Vrodhue, 30, was killed instantly. Fred Sesley, 33, owner and driver of the car died a few minutes after he was taken to Nanticoke state hospital.

Ray Haward, Alex Nicholson and Fred Ridgewood, the other occupants of the car, were taken to the hospital. All were unconscious and in a critical condition.

The five men were employed at the Loomis Colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Company.

POLICE NAME PENSION BOARD MEMBERS AT MONDAY MEETING

Patrolmen J. E. Craig and George Robinson will represent the Xenia Police Department as members of a board of trustees which will administer the police relief fund, embracing pension provisions for members of the department, for the year 1931.

Election of the two officers was by written ballot, the action being taken at a meeting of members of the force at police headquarters Monday night.

City Commission will also be represented on the trustee board by two of its members expected to be selected at the commission meeting Thursday night.

Two other members of the board residents of Xenia but not affiliated with either the commission or the police force, will be elected later, one by the two commission members and the other by the police force members.

In the event of a tie-vote or disagreement involving administration of the fund, the six trustees, under the terms of the police relief ordinance, will elect a seventh member whose vote shall decide any mooted question.

The maximum levy that can be made for the fund is three-tenths of a mill a year but it has been pointed out that a tax levy of even one-tenth of a mill would bring into the fund between $1,200 and $1,400 annually, based on a county tax duplicate of twelve to fourteen million dollars.

The fund will become operative in 1931.

GANDHI UPRISINGS ARE INCREASING AS LEADERS ARRESTED

Leader Continues To Go Free; Rioting In Bombay

BOMBAY, April 8.—Nationalist demonstrations, inspired by Mahatma Gandhi, increased in size and enthusiasm today, resulting in the arrest of many prominent leaders of the movement, while Gandhi continuing his open defiance of the authorities, was unmolested.

A great crowd, estimated at 10,000 gathered in the village of Aat today expecting Gandhi to be arrested. The frail independence leader went to the village with his followers from Dandi, five miles away but when he arrived found that his purpose had been frustrated. There was not a policeman in sight.

After listening to a speech by Gandhi the crowd dispersed.

In Bombay there were numerous demonstrations, the largest being in protest against the arrest of students. Pickets were stationed at the colleges to urge scholars to go on strike.

K. F. Mariman, president of the Bombay Youth League and one of the best known of the home rule leaders, was sentenced to a month's imprisonment for violating the salt law.

In Ahmedabad, the headquarters of the home rule movement, eight leaders were arrested on the same charge and joined several score comrades taken to jail yesterday.

FOUR KILLED

LONDON, April 8. —Four members of the crew were killed and three seriously injured today when a depth bomb exploded prematurely on the British destroyer Sepoy, engaged in practice outside the harbor, according to dispatches from Hongkong.

YANCEY WILL SHIP HIS AIRPLANE HOME

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 8.—Unable to make suitable repairs on a broken pontoon strut, Captain Lewis Yancey, commander and navigator of the flight in the pilot from New York last week, decided today to place the plane aboard a ship for home.

It had been the plan and desire of Captain Yancey and his companions, William Alexander and Zeh Bouck, to make the return trip by air, but he found it impossible to mend the strut, which was split and said business in the states prevented him from delaying the return.

REDS BUY CATCHER FROM READING CLUB

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8.—The Cincinnati Reds, after being idle yesterday, will go into action against the Louisville Colonels of the American Association here this afternoon in the first tilt of a three game series.

Word has been received here that Manager Dan Howley purchased Len Styles, catcher from the Reading International League club. Styles was formerly a backstop for the Athletics. He played with the Toronto Club when Howley managed it.

NAVAL CONFERENCE DROPS FIVE-POWER TREATY DISCUSSION

Britian, Japan And United States To Continue Efforts

LONDON, April 8.—Unless some totally unexpected development occurs, the London naval conference this afternoon is expected to abandon its attempt to reach a five-power disarmament agreement.

The return to London from Paris of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand in all probabilities will be the signal for termination of the five-power negotiations here, with the result that Great Britain, Japan and the United States will bend all their efforts toward formulation of a tri-partite treaty.

M. Briand is returning to London bearing a threat from Admiral Violette, chief of the French naval general staff, that he will resign his post if the French tonnage figures are reduced, even with the security Britain is willing to guarantee by stiffening article XVI of the League of Nations covenant.

For this and other reasons, it now appears that the five-power negotiations are but a few hours away from failure.

The French and British cabinets both have approved the Briand-MacDonald formula involving interpretation of article sixteen. M. Briand was returning to London today to continue negotiations.

It is said that official opinion in Paris is that France should not enter into any treaty here unless Italy is a signatory. And thus, in final negotiations for a treaty England might have to make her participation conditional upon the French naval program. So that from this view the whole limitations structure depends upon what France does.

Heads of the British, American and Japanese delegations conferred for more than an hour at St. James' Palace today, giving preliminary consideration to the drafting of a three-power treaty. They considered the report of the naval experts' committee involving details of Japan's accelerated replacement plan, designed to keep her shipyards busy.

Ex-Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki of Japan reiterated the previous Japanese request for the right to transfer 20,000 tons of destroyers to the submarine class, while the Americans and British repeated their previous refusal. Wakatsuki reserved the right to re-state his request tomorrow when the three delegations meet again to complete all details of the agreement.

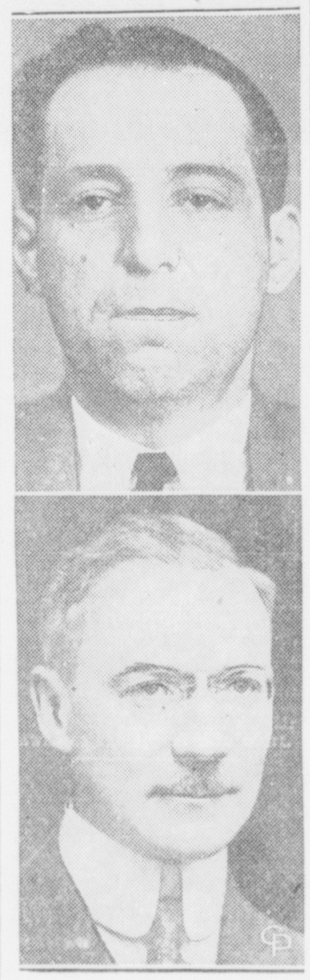

The first committee of the conference meets this afternoon to plan completion of the parley's technical work, chiefly methods of limitation, which despite previous threats to the contrary, the British and American delegations are prepared to accept even though a five-power treaty is not signed here.

DARROW TO DEBATE SMITH BROOKHART

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.— Just when prohibition is becoming the greatest topic of discussion of the American people, Clarence Darrow, native Ohioan and probably the country's most famous criminal lawyer, and Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, a firebrand in congress, will meet in a debate here tonight when the subject of the eighteenth amendment will be argued.

Darrow will uphold the affirmative side of the question, while Brookhart will argue for the prohibition law as it now stands.

LONG SEARCH ENDS

After eight years of relentless searching Chicago police believe they have captured the eighth member and leader of a gang of nine, who robbed Arthur W. Cutten, below, multi-millionaire grain operator, and his wife and guests and locked him in the basement vault of his mansion. The captured man, who was arrested at Cleveland, denies that he is Simon Rosenberg, the hunted gangster. Cutten financed the search.

BLAME GAS HEATING STOVES FOR BLAST; JURY PROBES CASE

Fireworks And Black Powder Touched Off By Open Heat

MALVERN, Pa., April 8.—Gas stoves used for heating the Pennsylvania Fireworks Display Company building at Devon today were blamed for the blasts which destroyed the plant snuffing out ten lives and injured forty other persons by the coroner's jury which investigated the case under the direction of Herbert Ford, Chester County coroner.

The jury of six prominent Chester County men returned its verdict after conducting a two-day hearing during which fifteen witnesses were called. The severity of the blasts was caused "by large quantities of finished bombs, and other fireworks and also large quantities of black powder stored on the premises," the jurors asserted.

District Attorney John N. Guss, of West Chester, said that after he had time to study the finding of the jury he would decide whether or not any grounds existed for criminal prosecution.

SOLOMON NOT NEEDED

Babies Confused At Hospital But One Yields Babe She Nursed a Week

CINCINNATI, O., April 8.— A twentieth century allegory on the Biblical narrative of King Solomon and the story of two mothers who claimed the same child, today had been written into the records of the General Hospital here, but, in this tale, the story ended happily for both mothers.

The principals in the strange episode, which bordered on the dramatic and during which one of the mothers nursed the wrong baby for eight days, are Mrs. Ella Adams and Mrs. Eunice Adams.

When Mrs. Eunice Adams visited the hospital yesterday to see her newly-born child who had been left in the hospital for treatment, she became alarmed when she saw a four-pound baby indexed as her own.

"That's not my baby," the mother cried. "My baby was not that small."

And at the instance of the grief-torn mother, hospital officials started an investigation.

It developed that Mrs. Ella Adams had the child of Mrs. Eunice Adams at her home and had nursed it for eight days.

When informed of the "switch of babies," Mrs. Ella Adams refused to give up the child whom she had nursed. It was an eight-pound infant.

But upon pleas of the real mother, Mrs. Ella Adams finally acquiesced and returned to the hospital with the baby she had nursed for eight days and turned it over to Mrs. Eunice Adams and accepted the four-pound child as her own.

The four-pound infant, the only survivor of a set of triplets, is in such a weakened condition that the mother could not remove it from the incubator ward.

Dr. H. H. Langdon, assistant superintendent of the hospital, in explaining the incident said: "The error probably occurred because of the fact that both babies were indexed on the same day and that both mothers were named 'Mrs. E. Adams.' The internes apparently got their cards mixed."

STOCKHOLDERS ARE MEETING IN SPITE OF EFFORTS OF FOES

Merger Opponents Still Battle To Rally Votes

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 8.—It was the zero hour in the steel world today as the spectacular war over a proposal to merge Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., with Bethlehem Steel Corporation came to a climax here with a meeting of stockholders of the Youngstown concern.

With the meeting a practical certainty despite the efforts of forces opposing the merger to forestall it through the federal courts and have it declared "null, void, and illegal," the anti-mergerists went out along a new battle front this morning in a desperate, last-minute attempt to kill the merger move.

An injunction suit to restrain the merger proxy committee from voting 51,000 shares of stock bought by Otis and Co., March 22, was filed in common pleas court here shortly before midnight. Service was obtained on defendants early today.

This action was taken by the anti-mergerists following the denial of an injunction by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle of Detroit, sitting in Cleveland as chancellor in equity, which would have halted the consolidated proceedings and stopped all moves to effect the merger.

Despite his defeat in court, Cyrus W. Eaton, Cleveland financier and leader of the opposition to the merger, expressed confidence today that the consolidation proposal will be defeated.

Expressions of confidence were likewise forthcoming from the camp of James A. Campbell, 75-year-old steel chief, who is waging one of his last, and undoubtedly one of the most bitter fights of his colorful career in the steel industry.

The question to be put to the stockholders of Sheet and Tube is whether the owners of the Youngstown concern will accept the offer of Bethlehem to exchange one and one-third shares of Bethlehem stock for one share of Sheet and Tube.

Under the laws of Ohio an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the outstanding shares of the Youngstown concern is necessary to effect the merger.

Nearly 1,200,000 votes will be cast. Of these 800,000 will be necessary to assure the consolidation while 395,261 are needed to block the proposal. The Eaton forces claimed to hold more than sufficient votes to throw against the merger.

Interest in Youngstown was at white heat as the day's developments impended. Steel is the very life of this Mahoning Valley city and for that reason they are interested in what will become of "the hand that feeds them."

Attorneys for the anti-merger announced today that they would appeal from the decision of Judge Tuttle in Cleveland yesterday. The appeal will be filed with the United States circuit court of appeals in Cincinnati.

The purpose of the appeal was in the event the consolidation is approved, the case would still be in the courts and the action of the stockholders rendered null and void by a reversal of the Cleveland decision.

Judge Tuttle ruled at Cleveland yesterday that the meeting could not be enjoined just because the opponents of the merger had been denied all the reports, audits and analyses pertaining to the consolidation negotiations they desired. His ruling disposed of two suits filed in federal court and two previously filed in Youngstown.

FILIPINOS RESENT SLIGHT FROM GIRLS

MANILA, April 8.—Filipinos in the Moro province Davao today were reported to be incensed because of the purported refusal of Governor General Davis' two daughters to accept an invitation to a formal reception arranged by Filipino officials. The Davis girls made a brief stop at Davao while enroute to Java.

The following day Filipinos held an indignation meeting, at which they declared a boycott on American cigarets and demanded deportation of the Americans who, they claimed, were responsible for the slight.

Every week a plan for an attractive modern home will be presented, with an architect's drawing of the house, plans for both floors and a complete description of the architecture and details of construction.

Building contractors and business men furnishing supplies and equipment for homes, will be found as advertisers on this page weekly. They offer the prospective home-builder expert advice and information regarding their building problems, all of which can be solved by consulting Xenia contractors and merchants.

As a further service, this paper is able to furnish house plans to prospective builders for the mere asking and at no charge whatever. People wanting such plans are urged to write to the Building Page Editor, furnishing their name and address and they will be supplied with a complete book of plans to aid them in selecting the type of home they wish to build.

SUITS TO RECOVER MONEY FROM SCHOOL BOARDS DISMISSED

Petitions filed by O. M. Creamer and Hiram Rogers, both residents of New Jasper Twp., seeking to recover $1,274.75 and $209.50, respectively, from the Silvercreek Twp. Board of Education and the Greene County Board of Education for transportation of their sons to Jamestown High School, have been ordered dismissed by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy. The court sustained demurrers to the petitions of the plaintiffs.

Creamer and Rogers claimed that they live more than four miles away from Jamestown High School, the nearest school and that there is no school in the township in which they reside.

The charge was made that in conferences with the Silvercreek board prior to enrolling their sons at Jamestown the board had agreed to pay transportation costs at a rate of $1.25 a day.

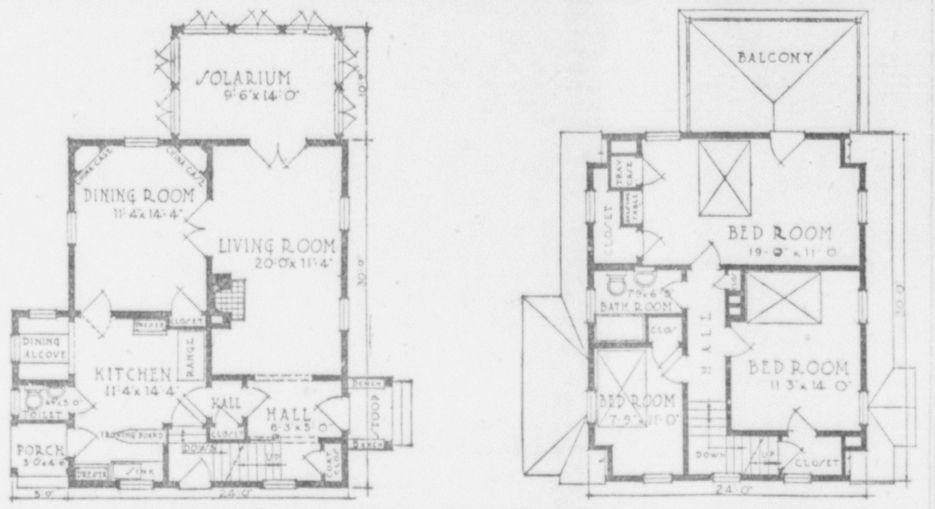

Creamer's sons, Russell and Davis, the latter a cripple, and Rogers' son, Lawrence, attended Jamestown High, but the fathers asserted the board failed to live up to its agreement to pay for their transportation over a period of several years.

FIFTEEN ARE ILL

PLACERVILLE, Cal., April 8. — Fifteen persons, three of them in a critical condition, were being treated today for trichinosis. They were stricken after eating pork at a birthday party.

A Dutch Colonial Home Adapted to Modern American Requirements

Everywhere is seen the inclination to build homes of architectural merit instead of just houses. Typical of the modern home is this one in Dutch Colonial manner adapted to present day American needs.

This is a six room residence. In this plan service are houses of all architectural types—houses adaptable to lots of all sizes and shapes.

A study of the floor plans will show how compactly this attractive home is planned. The living room and solarium extend across the front of the house. The dining room is large and has china cases built-in in the corners. The kitchen is planned to make housework light and easy. The range and refrigerator are placed to the best possible advantage and ample cupboard space is provided by an arrangement of kitchen dressers.

Upstairs there are three light, airy bedrooms and the bath. There is ample closet space, each bedroom having a large clothes closet opening off it. Off one bedroom is a large linen and tray case where space is provided for the storage of linens and bedding.

Houses of this type are economical to build and maintain. There is no waste space and the materials are handled to the best possible advantage. Because of its careful planning and excellent exterior, houses of this type will remain "in style." There is no useless ornamentation or modern "jazz" effect in the exterior or the planning. It is a house for the average family and can be built at a price that is within the reach of most home builders.

The above design is Plan No. C 274.

The next meeting will be held at Trinity M. E. Church and will be an open meeting.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

RESTRAINS ERECTION OF WATER TOWER FOR CEDARVILLE PLANT

A temporary restraining order enjoining further work on the erection of a water tower 100 feet in height at a location claimed to be in a residential district in Cedarville was granted by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy following an injunction suit filed by P. M. Gillilan, Cedarville, against the village of Cedarville and The Pittsburgh-DesMoines Co., the firm which has the contract for installation of a waterworks system in the village.

Gillilan sets forth in his petition that he owns real estate on the west side of Bridge St. in Cedarville and that his own residence is 130 feet east of the point where the water tower is being constructed.

The plaintiff asserts that it is his intention to erect dwelling houses on his real estate directly to the north of his residence property and that the water tower resting on immense steel girders with a large concrete foundation, is to be situated within ten feet of his north property line.

The locality is purely a residential district and according to Gillilan the water tower will not only be unsightly and obstruct the view materially from his residence and from his proposed new dwellings, but on windy days the water from the tank will be blown on his premises, to the detriment of the property, causing it to depreciate in value.

The plaintiff seeks to have the temporary injunction made perpetual upon a final hearing.

Marshall and Marshall are attorneys for the plaintiff.

DIAGNOSTIC CHEST CLINIC IS STARTED HERE; 35 EXAMINED

Approximately thirty-five persons were given physical examinations at the diagnostic chest and tuberculosis clinic in session in the basement of the Court House, Tuesday morning and afternoon. The clinic is one of a series being held in counties throughout the state.

Mrs. Guy-Harold Smith, tuberculosis health nurse in this county, has made it possible for Greene County to conduct the clinic with the aid of the Greene County Medical Society and the state health board. The clinic is being held two days and continues through Wednesday.

Through Mrs. Smith's investigation throughout the county about sixty-eight cases were discovered, the more than $10,000 cases of tu- and the aim of the state department of health in holding the clinic, is that the people of the community and county may be educated to the necessity of frequent and adequate physical examinations. It is hoped that through this method the spread of tuberculosis may be prevented by finding and securing treatment for the early cases. For the more than $10,000 acses of tuberculosis reported in Ohio in 1929, there are only 2,315 beds available at present.

Physicians of the county and the local health department have endeavored to invite persons from every part of the county who most need the service, to attend the clinic. There, persons were referred back to the family physician and a copy of the diagnostic findings will be mailed to him and he will see that the case is taken care of. The family physician accompanied each case to the clinic, Tuesday and will do likewise Wednesday.

There will be a meeting of the medical society, Tuesday evening in the assembly room of the Court House at 8 o'clock. The public is invited to attend the meeting. Examining experts of the clinic and representatives of the state department of health will be speakers.

It Is Easy To End Fat

That is, in the right way, used by modern physicians. No abnormal exercise or diet, but help to a gland that is weak. The recent large reduction in excess fat has been largely due to that method.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. In almost every circle you can see the amazing change it brings.

If over-fat, you owe yourself a trial of Marmola. Don't remain abnormal. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Each box states the formula and tells the reasons for results. Start growing thin, as your friends have done, at once.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

VICTORY OVER SELF — Bless them which persecute you: bless, and curse not. Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep.—Romans 12:14, 15.

MOVIE ETHICS

Will H. Hays, who has been re-elected president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, announces a new code of ethics for the motion industry, which may be summarized as:

"That every effort shall be made to reflect in drama and entertainment the better standards of life; law, natural or human, shall not be ridiculed; sympathy shall not be created for violation of law; crimes against law shall never be presented, so as to throw sympathy with the crime as against law and justice; acts of murder or brutality shall be presented only in such a way as will not inspire imitation, and use of liquor in American life in the screen shall be restricted to actual plot requirements. No film or episode may ridicule any religious faith, and pointed profanity or obscenity in word, gesture, reference, song or joke is forbidden."

Strict observance of this code would make the movies the greatest single factor in this country working for higher social standards and greater respect for the law. There are good films and bad. The trouble is that where a hundred people will go to see George Arliss in "Disraeli," a thousand will pass it up for a few reels of sensational trash fitted to the moron's taste.

A tremendous responsibility rests on the motion picture producers. A great opportunity is theirs if they will seize it. The film flashes its message on more minds every day than are reached by all the schools and colleges and churches in a week; and it does it in a way to leave a lasting impression on both the adolescent and the adult mind. As long as any considerable number of producers persist in placing box-office receipts above their obvious duty not to use this great power to further demoralize the nation, we shall be confronted with the problem that this code of ethics seeks to remove.

Among the most vicious defects which the code outlaws is the representation of vice and crime in such light as to encourage weak minds to think that they can indulge in them without fear of the laws of God or man. Censors in Great Britain ban films which do not bring the criminal to disillusionment. The old melodrama in this country always had its villain; but it saw well to it that before the curtain fell on his misguided career he met the fate so royally wished on him by the audience. The movies can be made a bulwark of law and order by similarly allowing their villains to reach the end of their ropes in full view of the spectators. Are the men who produce them big enough to be guided by a self-imposed code of ethics.

ELECTION LAWS

A new election law in Kentucky postpones the count until the next day. The ballot boxes will be secured by three locks and taken to the county seat, where the returns will be tabulated on the day after election. The purposes of this unusual procedure is to reduce fraud in counting the votes.

Whether this purpose will be achieved remains to be seen. Central counting has been tried in other states and abandoned by some because it proved to be slower and less accurate and no less exposed to fraud than counts made at the polling booths. The theory was that a fresh set of men put on the job would handle it faster and more accurately than election officials who had been on duty during polling hours. As a matter of fact they didn't. The Green Grass state may have a different experience.

As far as the delay in determining the winners at the polls in concerned, we can't see that any important interest is prejudiced by postponing the announceemnt for twenty-four hours. Where elections are closely contested, a few impatient people, who can't read the signs of the times, will be annoyed by this enforced suspense; but for the most part the electorate will go about its daily employs unirked by the delay. The newspapers ought to welcome it. They will escape the election-night grind at tabulating machines; they will enjoy one more fling at prophecy. The losers of election bets will receive another day's interest on their money at the bank. The winners at the polls will have the reward that comes of the fulfillment of hope deferred overnight.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

SENSIBLE

If you are nearly worn out with something or other that is worrying you, the chances are it isn't the matter itself which is so important and which is breaking your back. The trouble is you are taking it and yourself and all your problems much too seriously. You see, nothing is worth going to pieces under. Nothing is worth shipwreck. With a straight talk to yourself, along with a sense of humor, you can sometimes ease a burden—ease it so greatly that the time will come when you have even forgotten that you were carrying it.

One reads this verse by Clark Hobbs in the Baltimore Evening Sun:

"Are you carrying a burden
That you scarcely can sustain?
Are you bending 'neath its pressure
Till you're one big ache and pain?
Are your hinges weak and creaking
As you urge your waning zest?
If you are, you poor, dumb nitwit,
Slough your load and take a rest!"

PASSING IT ON

Tilden, great tennis player, makes a practice of looking after promising players and helping them toward the heights of championship. He's interested in the game and in progress and in young men as much as he is in Tilden. There is something big and fine about that attitude. Some men do not want good men around them. They are so desirous of outshining all others that they make sure of it by hiring only second raters. The ablest executives, however, are those who try to keep the best possible men around them. They are more interested in building up a strong organization than they are in doing all the shining.

WHERE WOMEN EXCEL

A news item from Vienna tells us that Austrian women are getting into various branches of work that were formerly occupied only by men. That may be news for Austria but not for the United States. European nations may move more slowly than ours, but they move in the same direction. Women abroad are not greatly different from women at home. Nothing strange about it. Anybody who has thought about it at all must have admitted that women are not only as smart, but usually smarter than men. Not strange they are learning in Vienna what we in American towns learned a long time ago. Of course we were slow to admit it, but we always knew it.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

Many inquiries have been received from readers of The Question Box concerning the symbols of Easter and the reason for their adoption.

To the Norsemen the festival of the divinity of spring, from which came the word Easter, was especially the season of new birth. The symbols of the Easter egg and of the Easter rabbit as prolific reproducers of new life arose from this festival. Springs and well were decorated with flowers in token of the returning flow of water as a life-giving necessity. The custom of baptismal cleanliness, purification and regeneration naturally followed. The coloring of Easter eggs was borrowed from the rays of the Aurora Borealis—the northern lights—and the dawning hues of the Easter sun and flowers peculiar to that season of the year.

"Wild Geese"

Martha Ostenso, 29-year-old writer of Norwegian descent, who resides in Minneapolis, Minn., wrote this novel, which was published in 1925.

The First Auto

Please tell me in what year the first motor car appeared and who was the inventor.

Carl Benz, of Germany, invented the two-stroke motor in 1879, and in 1886 drove the first motor car through the streets of Munich. The first gasoline automobile in the United States was operated April 19, 1892, by its inventor, C. A. Duryea.

Theoretically Possible

Is it possible to have a Democratic president and a Republican vice president, or vice-versa?

Yes. If no nominee receives a complete majority of votes in the electoral college, under the constitution the house of representatives elects the president and the senate the vice president. The same party is not always in control of both these branches of congress, making is possible for one party representative to be selected in one house, and another party representative in the other.

Bo-Broadway

NEW YORK—Formality characterizes the get-up of radio announcers at the Fifth Ave. studios of the National Broadcasting Company. Addressing their invisible audience in the hours subsequent to candle lightin' time, they face the Mike always, in tuck and b'iled shirt. The studios are cluttered with Hams in formal attire.

Ed Shueing, pilot and manager of the Vallee feller, was asked one evening by a young woman visitor to point Rudy out to her.

"That's he over there," said Edward, grammatically—"the fellow NOT in evening clothes."

Beauty And The Bean

Childs—the real Childs, this time, has opened a new Nose Bag in the Grand Central district, with a staff of fifty-five red-haired biscuit shooters.

Old Man Salmon, personnel director of the ex-pancake chain, found so much diversity of hue among the red heads that he was forced to confine his selection to an arbitrary list of ten shades—Titan, auburn, henna, carrot, brick, mahogany, strawberry, coffee, bronze and ginger.

This same sort of thing was resorted to when the concern opened their Spanish Bean-Bazaar on Fifty-ninth Street. There, for the role of caviar tossers, were selected languorous, black-eyed beauties. In the Childs Fortieth Street English Tavern, buxom, full-bosom, red-cheeked, Nordic Nellies were given preference.

In a Childs Sardine Salon with a high, vaulted ceiling, Mister Salmon places tall, lovely loose-lipped Amazons, the plump, cuddly kind being reserved for the low-ceilinged places.

Of course that's all right for Old Doc Ziegfeld. He glorifies his girls and himself along with 'em. For, be it remembered, that with all his talk of pulchritude, Ziegfeld is the Perfect Producer.

The function of a restaurateur is to provide palatable nourishment at reasonable rates in surroundings conducive to appetite. But when a Bean Baron undertakes to divert the mind from the matter of beans and to focus it on beauty, we may be forgiven if we hae our doots.

Misdirected attention is the stock in trade of the sleight-of-hand performer.

Childs earned fame and fortune wtih a background of white-tile and buckwheat griddles. It's too bad they haven't courage enough to stick to the original vision. There are enough fluffy eating shops in New York without adding any more.

When you step into a joint with a doorman, a canopy, a corps of hat-checkers and a flock of flunkies, don't forget you're paying for all that trimming.

Our Motto: Less la-de-dah, and more o' what we're payin' for.

Life Is Like That

If you're thinking about earning a living in a sitting posture at the grand piano, with an eberhardfaber and a cigaroot in your left hand, batting out "song hits," give a moment's consideration to the sad case of George Bennett and Sam Carlton, two lads destined for big things.

A topical, peppy number, emanating from the snoot of a Broadway "star" in a big Broadway show, is the song writer's dream. But in this day of stalking pict'rs and radio, as Bernard Shaw said, "You never CAN tell."

George and Sam wrote "My Wife Is on a Diet." Eddie Cantor used it as his big specialty in Ziegfeld's "Whoopee." Every vaudevillian and radio ham sang it; but—nobody bought it.

Their joint royalties on it were exactly $47.50—and this is the laugh that came through the Victrola record that Cantor made and that Cantor fans stumbled over one another to buy.

Add Rackets

Jack Buchanan, the Mazda Laner, was squatting in Sardi's. It's "the thing" these days to squat there. Gardi, the artist chap, spotted him and rushed over to his table to do a caricature. Then Hoffman, another crayon pusher, joined them.

What an entree apiece of crayon imparts!

Comment at my table—Morehouse, the adjective slinger speaking:

"There's Jack Buchanan's big moment. Boy looka that pose! He's all set!"

"Yeah," said the Duchess, in a Margot Asquith alto, "getting all set to pay for three luncheons!"

THE (TEN YEARS) OLD MAN OF THE SEA

VOTERS SEEM TO PREFER POLITICIANS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Politics is not as black as it is painted. Business is the real brunet.

If folk would take a good look they would recognize this.

Evidently they do know it subconsciously, but they fail to take cognizance of it with that part of their minds that they think with.

They prove that they know it subconsciously by almost never allowing a "business administration" to remain long in office. It is notorious that such administrations are short-lived, and that an administration of business men almost invariably is followed by reversion to a political administration.

Politicians do have their faults, unmistakably.

After they have been running things for awhile, the voters get thoroughly sick of them, and decide to put business men on the job and keep them there forevermore.

Sure enough, they elect a business administration, which is inaugurated with tremendous eclat, promptly gets itself intensely disliked, is relegated to oblivion at the end of about one term—an back come the politicians, their popularity fully rehabilitated and ready to run a fresh gamut until the time arrives for another one-term business interval.

This sequence is so persistent that it attracted attention long ago, and plenty of people have asked themselves and one another what the explanation was.

The generally accepted theory seems to be that blunt business honesty can triumph only chiefly over political chicanery.

Even with the senate lobby investigating committee's revelations still filling the newspapers it appears to occur to no one that political standards are decidedly higher than business'—and that the voters manifestly see the difference most of the time.

The business men who take office when a business administration is chosen usually are all right personally, to be sure.

The complex they represent is what, if anything, is the matter.

Business men unquestionably think, in all honesty, that everything belong to business—not to them, individually, but to business, as an abstract proposition.

A business administration must agree with them or it would not be a business administration.

Business' psychology is difficult to describe, but maybe an illustration will demonstrate it.

To save their lives, Claudius Huston and the business world, it is perfectly plain, cannot understand what there is to criticize in Claudius' past connection with Muscle Shoals lobbying activities, taken in connection with his present connection with the G. O. P. national committee, as its chaiman.

Well, what is there in it all, to criticize?

Oh, nothing in particular; it was all perfectly legal.

And yet every politician in Washington can see what there is to criticize. Not a Republican voice is raised in Claudius' defense in congress when the newspapers pan him.

Claudius certainly will have to resign as G. O. P. national chairman, because the congressional campaigns are just coming on, and it is agreed among G. O. P. senators and representatives that Republican candidates cannot afford to have him at the head of their party organization, with their seats at stake.

It is embarrassing, inasmuch as Claudius was President Hoover's selection for the G. O. P. chairmanship—but Mr. Hoover is a business administrator, and most of this year's candidates are politicians; they have to be particular.

This menu was planned for four people. The luncheon is planned for three, including two high school young people, who undoubtedly enjoy the hot popovers.

Today's Recipes

Hollandaise Sauce—One-half cup butter, three egg yolks, two tablespoons lemon juice, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon white pepper, one-half cup boiling water. Beat the butter to a soft cream and add egg yolks—unbeaten—one at a time, beating well between each addition. To this add the lemon juice and seasoning. About five minutes before serving place in top of double boiler, and add boiling water, a little at a time. Cook until thick—stirring constantly. Remove when thick and smooth.

Popovers—One egg, well beaten; one cup milk, one cup flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Bake in hot greased muffin tins, in a very hot oven, until they pop and become well browned.

Broccoli—Wrap tender stems and flower heads, after being washed carefully, in cheesecloth. Steam over boiling water for 15 minutes. Remove, salt and serve at once with Hollandaise sauce.

CAUGHT

A woman arriving in this country after a short visit to the Continent was asked the usual question by the customs official at the landing port: "Anything to declare, madame?"

"No," she replied, sweetly "nothing."

"Then, madam," said the official, "am I to take it that the fur tail I see hanging down under your coat is your own?"

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

DRAGON-FLY TURNS TEACHER

There really was nothing the matter with the brand new young Dragon-Fly. As soon as his elder cousin had made certain of this he was anxious to get the youngster's mind off the latter's troubles. He mounted a grass stalk:

"Come on, young fellow! Up and at 'em! You have had plenty of rest now, and 'tis high time you put something in that empty stomach. There's not a breeze stirring, right now, and you'll find it easier to fly without the wind to mock you. All ready?"

"You just bet I am!" In his eagerness to begin, the young Dragon-Fly quite forgot the stitch in his wing.

"Well then, climb up on that blade of grass and open your wings, so! Slowly! That's right! Now rise into the air. Take your time, sonny! There's no hurry. Fine! Now glide! Here, don't flap about like that, 'tis only wasting your time and will not get you anywhere. Good. Now we're off. Sail smoothly, keep your balance and don't try to mount the sun as you said you were going to do. Hurrah, I'm proud of you. You are flying asthough you had always known how to use your wings. Mark my words, I'll make a mighty hunter of you, yet. You have the strong jows and the sure wings that he who overtakes and holds his prey must own. So long, boy friend. Off we go!"

Peter shaded his eyes with his hand and watched the flyers circling over his head. His particular friend had turned teacher and was coaching his younger cousin. As Peter gazed, suddenly, it seemed that the youngster had learned his lesson well. His flight became less uncertain his, dips and soars less faltering and at last, wing to wing with his older cousin, he flew away. Now the two were but tiny specks in the blue sky.

Then and not until then Peter discovered he was tired. He sat down to rest in a shaded spot by the pool's side.

ENJOYMENT WITHOUT STRAIN IN PLAYING WITH CHILDREN

(Editor's Note: Garry C. Myers, Ph. D., is head, Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University, and editor of Babyhood.)

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

Recently I have shared in a number of family games. More playing than usual now, since our youngest lad of seven is quarantined with whooping cough. He has often prevailed upon me to play with him. Dominoes, checkers, and flinch attracted him most often. These are wonderful games for children over five or six. Dominoes and flinch, moreover, stimulate number interests, number perception and number order and values. No better introduction to arithmetic.

When his older brother and sister came home from school he pressed them into playing. Sometimes it was his mother, sometimes the maid. As a rule no one found these games a hardship.

The older children at about his age used to play such games together for hours, and often their playmates and his have dropped in for several games.

Mrs. Myers came home one day with a new game for the older children, who are fourteen and sixteen years. Parlor croquet it was. Four can play at one time, or two or three. This game has been kept pretty busy since it arrived. Dad and Mother like it; so does the youngest child of seven. His big brother played for a couple ho with him this afternoon, Sund and he practiced all alone dur several short intervals.

Because I wished to encour him to practice reading aloud bargained with him for a game every two pages he would re There were several readings well warded by as many games, m than half of which he acutally w It seems that the pup learns r tricks faster than the old dog. A way this trick has a lot of lure fording one more means for m companionship among the child at home, among them and th playmates outside, and betwe them and their families.

In the evening the two older ch dren played several hands of bri with us and we all played as am ably as if we had been perf strangers. Best of all nobody under any strain. We played to p and find enjoyment, not to win a worry.

Mrs. Myers and I once h scruples about "cards." We did play in our childhood. I think parents missed something in playing such games with us, I kn we did. On the other hand, ou ents and we, their children, g something, perhaps much m valuable—the heritage of a home which our father and mother liv up to their convictions.

Parents who have strong cons entious objections to cards wo doubtless do their children harm playing cards with them. What you think about it?

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Revenge" Not Sweet As It Seems

"DEAR VIRGINIA: Have you ever been in love? Did you lose him? Well, I have and I did. He quit me because of my 'rep.' He hurt me very much, but I still love him. Now I could have him back if I said the word, but shall I give him another chance?

"Couldn't I get him back and then throw him down as he did me? I've reformed. My 'rep's' getting good. I think I could forget him, but I want to avenge my injured pride.

"I have unsightly hairs on my arms. What cna I do to get rid of them? CHICKIE."

Flippant, aren't you, Chickie? Is your letter a hoax, by any chance? No matter, there's good material to answer in case any one else is debating the question you raise.

Being human, of course I've been in love, and of course it failed a few times, although I don't remember being turned down exactly. Am afraid my affairs were never that serious.

Of course you can beckon him back and "make him suffer," and be just as melodramatic as you please, but I doubt whether you would get much enjoyment uot of it.

Shelving the ethical side of it, if you are normal, or anythnig like it, you feel mean when you really have made another suffer—no matter how much you may try to deceive yourself and make yourself think you're enjoying it, and no matter what they have done to you.

So, I don't believe I'd "satisfy" that particular "longing," as you call it.

As to the hairs, you can bleach them with peroxide and ammonia—household—half and half, or you can get a depillary from the drug store, or shave, but in the latter case you'll have to make it a habit, of course.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: A stranger moved into our neighborhood five years ago. I was very friendly toward her and did everything to make things pleasant for her. To pay me she has wrecked the friendship between my best friend and myself, and then can't understand why I don't treat her the same. Haven't I a right to leave her absolutely alone? MARTHA O."

If the woman is a mischief maker I certainly think you are justified in leaving her alone until such time, at least, as she is in trouble and needs you. Then I think it is generally best to forget unpleasantne

A WORRIED WIFE AND MOTHER: See the insurance people ab your husband's insurance. Ma they can get him to pay it. It pretty risky to break up your ho and expect to get alimony to t care of yourself and boy. Husba are naturally not very eager to p out money on which they feel t are getting no return, to suppor wife who has left them or of wh they have tired, so they have a w of slipping out from under wh ever they have a chance.

Haven't you some friend of t family whom your husband respe who could talk to you both and to point out a way you could happy together? If not, and th is no court of domestic relati near you, talk with one of t judges in your county buildi ask him what is best to do.

THE MONTH OF MAY is t signature of a woman who thi the women who left the cl wherein one member was reputed be a home wrecker were not Chr tian or they would have tried "save" the woman instead of co demning her. You certainly m write again, May.

DOT: I don't think the t showed good judgment in aski you to write and tell him to let h know if you wanted to go anywhe It makes an embarrassing situati for you. As he did so, howe there would be no harm in writ him just once and suggesting t he come to see you or take y some place, and then tell him t you do not intend to do it aga That if he wants to see you should make the suggestion.

DIXIE: Be patient awhile, Dix It may be that mother really kno best and that this boy isn't a su able companion for you. I'm gl you didn't run away and mar him. Just "bide awhile" and ma be, if he really IS the proper on he will be able to win your moth over. He can try, anyhow.

BABE: Most married men w court single girls tell the girls th their wives don't understand the That is the stock excuse. IF he d vorces his wife and marries yo you'll have a chance to see wheth he really is the abused party and he'll make you happy and you ll I know no other way of telling

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

WOMEN of America are constantly under an intense muscle tension and nerve strain. The modern age places women in a struggle against an ever increasingly rapid pace, and the speed of motor cars, subways even the tempo of our happiness—our clubs, our parties, our modern music—all make their impression on the woman who is daily thrown into contact with them.

Use of unnecessary nerve force becomes a habit with the modern woman, and its results are shown in tight strained faces, muscle-bound bodies, and jumpy movements.

Physical exercises of the right sort will help in placing the body in the right attitudes, but they must be accompanied by a passive unworried state of mind, so that muscles and nerves will not be hampered by a construction from the mental control.

If possible, relaxation should start in the lying down position. The following group of exercises for relaxation.

I.

1. Kneel, body upright, arms raised upward, head dropped back.
2. Drop body forward until hands and face are in relaxed position on floor and trunk is folded back on heels.
3. Return to first position.
4. Repeat eight to ten times.

II.

1. Stand with feet apart and let trunk drop forward from waist, all muscles of neck, shoulders, arms and back completely relaxed.
2. Swing trunk forward as far it will raise without extreme muscle effort from back. Arms ov head, neck relaxed.
3. Swing trunk downward between the legs—arms, back a neck relaxed.
4. Continue to let the trun swing up and down as freely a pendulum, with all upper trun muscles relaxed.
5. Repeat fifteen times, rest after each five.

III.

1. Stand with arms stretche high, reaching upward with enti body.
2. Relax in succession the finger wrists, elbows and shoulders.
3. Let the head, shoulders ar back droop forward in succession
4. With upper trunk fully relaxe drop to the right knee, then both knees.
5. Let body fall forward on floo absolutely relaxed.
6. Roll over on side and remai in this relaxed position for a fe seconds.
7. Keeping the relaxed positio roll back on knees, then slow rise upward, taking weight on righ foot.
8. Next slowly lift body until o both feet, upper trunk hangin limp from hips.
9. Begin to raise trunk from th lowest vetebra in turn until trun is upight.
10. Head and arms should be th last part of the body to rai
11. Lastly, stretch arms upward and yawn.
12. Repeat five times.

The twelve-inch, outside seam ball, the type that has been used in softball games in Xenia for the last three seasons, has been adopted by the Recreation Ball commission at Dayton as the standard size for tournament play for the city softball leagues this year. Last year there were eighteen leagues and 108 teams in the field at Dayton and an even greater entry list is anticipated this year, testifying to the growth of the popularity of this outdoor sport.

Talk about accuracy from the foul line in basketball. Early Maxwell, Memphis, Tenn., won the basketball free throw championship of the world Saturday by tossing ninety-eight baskets out of a possible 100. It was the third time he had won the title and this year he competed with 1,064,000 free throwers in twelve countries.

Despite the fact a resolution has been adopted by the Ohio College Association suggesting that only juniors and seniors preferably only the later, be permitted to take part in intercollegiate athletics to eliminate professionalizing and recruiting of athletics, there is no intimation that any of the member colleges plan to put the idea into effect any time soon. The general sentiment appears to be that the step seems too radical, idealistic and impractical to allow its early adoption under present conditions.

Hope for a football game with Butler College of Indianapolis, Ind., this spring has virtually been abandoned by Coach Bill Stobbs, of Wittenberg College. The proposed game was to have climaxed the spring training season and was to have been staged at Indianapolis. It is reported that the board of control of athletics at Butler frowns on the contest.

Taking the tip from other schools, where the experiment has been tried and proven popular, Wittenberg College plans to introduce night football games next fall. Two of the Lutheran home games will be played after dark under the glare of artificial lights. They will be the games with Georgetown, Ky., September 27 and Heidelberg, October 18. Two of Wittenberg's games away from home will also be played at night. It is also expected that the Springfield High School Wildcats will play two of their home grid games at night, one being with Dayton Stivers.

An effort to halt excessive stalling, that process of one team holding possession of the ball and making no attempt to adbance it on offense, is being made by the National Association of Basketball Coaches, which has drawn up a set of seven proposals designed to minimize freezing the ball and speed up the play. Coach Walter Meanwell, of Wisconsin, noted basketball authority, will submit the suggestions to the national joint rules committee next spring.

Membership tickets being dispensed by the Xenia Playground Association in an effort to partly defray expenses of softball games in Xenia this summer are selling like hotcakes. Not that is necessary to join the association in order to witness the games, but softball fans who are in the habit of watching the contests almost every night feel that it is certainly worth at least 50 cents for the entertainment that is provided throughout the summer months and early fall. Voluntary donations of 50 cents or more are being sought and membership cards may be obtained at Harness Cigar Store or Woods and Whitlow barber shops as well from any of the ten softball teams.

CONVICTED HERE AS ACCIDENT SEQUEL

H. B. Foulke was convicted of a charge of reckless driving by Probate Judge S. C. Wright following a hearing Tuesday morning. Sentence was deferred for three days pending the filing of a motion for a new trial.

Foulke was arrested on an affidavit filed by S. H. Talbott, Glendale Ave., Dayton, O., following a headon auto collision on the Jamestown Pike, two miles west of Jamestown, March 14, in which the Dayton autoist sustained a deep gash on the forehead.

The collision occurred when an auto driven by Foulke and also occupied by his brother, traveling toward Jamestown, attempted to pass a hay wagon going in the same direction, and collided with Talbott's sedan, which overturned.

NEW OFFICERS IN CHARGE OF LODGE

Kenneth Elliott, lecturing knight; Robert McIntire, loyal knight and A. L. Smith, leading knight, also assumed office at the meeting.

After the meeting and a short talk by J. P. Kyle, past exalted ruler, luncheon was served.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT WILL BE HELD AT RECREATION PARLOR

A bowling tournament open to five-man teams frobm all parts of the Miami Valley will be held under auspices of the Recreation Parlor at the conclusion of the present league bowling season.

The tourney will get under way April 21 and entries are expected to be received from Sidney, Dayton, Springfield, Washington C. H. and Troy as well as Xenia.

Between twenty-five and thirty teams will enter, it is believed.

The tournament will be divided into two classes, "A" and "B," and doubles and singles events will also be included.

Quintets with a season's team average of 825 or over will compete in Class A and teams with an average below 825 will participate in the Class B division.

In the two-man division, doubles teams with an average between 340 and 390, combined average to count, will be placed in the Class A division and teams with combined average under 350 will be placed in Class B.

In the singles games, bowlers averaging 170 or better for the season will roll in Class A and entries averaging below 170 will be in Class B.

A number of cash prizes in the five-man, two-man and singles events will be awarded.

The entry fee is $1 per man for each event in which he competes and the entrance fee includes the cost of bowling the games.

PLAYGROUND BODY CHANGES BALL FOR LEAGUE USE HERE

Reconsidering their previous action, directors of the Xenia Playground Association, by a vote of 7 to 2, with one director absent, voted Monday night to adopt the twelve-inch, outside seam ball as the standard ball to be used in softball games in Xenia this summer.

Two votes were cast in favor of the inside seam ball, a more lively sphere, while Company L's team was not represented at the meeting. Geyers and Krippendorf-Dittman Co. favored the lively ball.

The twelve-inch outside seam ball which will be in vogue is the type which has been used in local softball games for the last three seasons.

Directors of the association had previously voted to use a smaller size ball, the ten-inch outside seam type, but it was discovered that this ball is not practical because it is almost as small and as hard as a regulation baseball.

STARS OF YESTERDAY

BY AL WINFIELD

The young fan of today smiles knowingly when we old-timers talk about the New York American Association team. To him and to the fans of this century the American Association is a great minor league with Toledo and Columbus as its most easterly cities.

It wasn't that way in the old days. And there was a New York American Association. And in its time it was a pennant winner. The Metropolitans was what the sport writers called the outfit and it strikes me that that is a better name for a New York team than Yankees or Giants.

I was a fast growing kid when I used to sneak out to Metropolitan park in mid-town New York near the East River and watch Tom Esterbrook burn things up at third and Dave Orr star at first.

These two lads were the New York slugging twins of their day, forerunners of the Babe Ruth-Lou Gehrig combination of the last few years.

In 1884 Tom Esterbrook led the Association with a .408 average and Dave copped honors in 1886 with a .346.

In those days a batter could call for a high or low ball, giving him a great advantage over the pitcher. But this was evened in a measure by the rule which gave a base on balls only after six wide ones had been tossed.

Fans had to depend on two-horse locomotion to get to the park in those days. The Mets' park was not far from the city's business center so it was easy for business men to get away from the office in time to see the game, but getting home for an early supper while riding behind the meandering plugs, who pulled the horse cars, was another thing. The Mets won the Association pennant in 1884, but lost the world series to Providence three games to one.

FROM TEE to GREEN

By ROY GROVE

There is probably no greater exponent of the heads down game than that of Willie Klein. The Garden City professional throws all his power into the shot with his rolling, snapping wrists and never looks up for the ball.

This keeps that contact between the top of the head and the bottom of the feet.

Notice how Klein looks over the right shoulder as in (B). He is absolutely at right angles to himself in executing this drive—looking down over the knee at point (D). His left leg stiffens, automatically at (F) when his wrists snap into the ball.

Note in (G) how the right wrist rolls over in taking the club head back and at the finish (C) we have the wrists rolled completely, with the left hand under the shaft. Klein must follow through to the extreme, in rolling, to prevent pulling the shot to the left.

His whole stroke in distance is delivered over a distance of probably not more than three inches at the contact point.

SAYS JULY FOURTH SHOULD REALLY BE ON SEPTEMBER 3

CHICAGO, April 8.—The idea of a new Indepedence Day to supplant July 4, is contained in a suggestion made here by J. Henry Smythe, Jr., of New York, to connection with Chicago's Century of Progress celebration to be held here in 1933.

In an interview at the Hamilton Club in this city, Smythe, who established Franklin Day in honor of Benjamin Franklin, suggested that the forthcoming celebration serve also to mark the 150th anniversary of the independence of the United States.

For, Smythe points out, although the Declaration of Independence was signed on July 4, 1776, it was not until September 3, 1783, that the treaty of peace with Great Britain, in which that country recognized the United States as an independent nation, was signed.

"That date," he said, referring to September 3, 1783, "might be as important today in our history as July 4, or perhaps more so, if it had received the proper backing at the start. It just happened that July 4, the day of signing the Declaration of Independence was selected as the day for celebrating our independence instead of September 3, which is just as logical a day from the standpoint of historical significance.

"Chicago could enhance its own celebration and introduce a novel idea by associating it with this important but apparently little known historical event."

Smythe has coined more than 1,000 successful patriotic and political slogans, and was a leader in the fight in the Methodist Church to lift the church's ban on amusements.

KONJOLA CALMS NERVES; AIDS INDIGESTION!

Young Cleveland Matron Glad To Tell What New Medicine Did For Her

Is there not hope and encouragement for sufferers who are searching for relief from their ills in the words of Mrs. Anna Green, 5712 Curtis Avenue, Cleveland, who recently said: "Konjola was the first medicine of all I tried that gave me any relief from the miseries of indigestion and shattered nerves. I had to force myself to eat, and my stomach rebelled at this. Food was not properly digested, and my nerves became affected. As the weeks passed, I lost steadily in weight and strength.

MRS. ANNA GREEN

"But how differently I feel now since taking a treatment of this remarkable Konjola. I had no idea such a complete change could come over one in so short a time. My nerves are calm, my digestion and appetite are normal, and I am sleeping fine. And how much better I feel in every way! To me Konjola is wonderful, and I indorse it with all my heart."

It is logical to believe that what Konjola has done for others it will do for you—for everyone. This is especially true if Konjola is given a fair trial and six to eight bottles are recommended as a fair trial.

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia, O., at Gallaher drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. —Adv.

THERE WAS SOMETHING of good fortune in the discovery of Camel's inimitable blend. Nothing like it has ever been known. . . . But in addition to the blend, another reason for Camel's superiority is the willingness of its manufacturers to put money into tobacco quality. Money to buy the choicest tobaccos grown, Turkish and Domestic—mild, mellow, fragrant, perfectly cured tobaccos that mingle their aromas in the Camel blend to make a truly wonderful smoke.

No better cigarette can be made than Camel. But the cost to you is no greater.

TELLING the WORLD'S NEWS with PICTURES

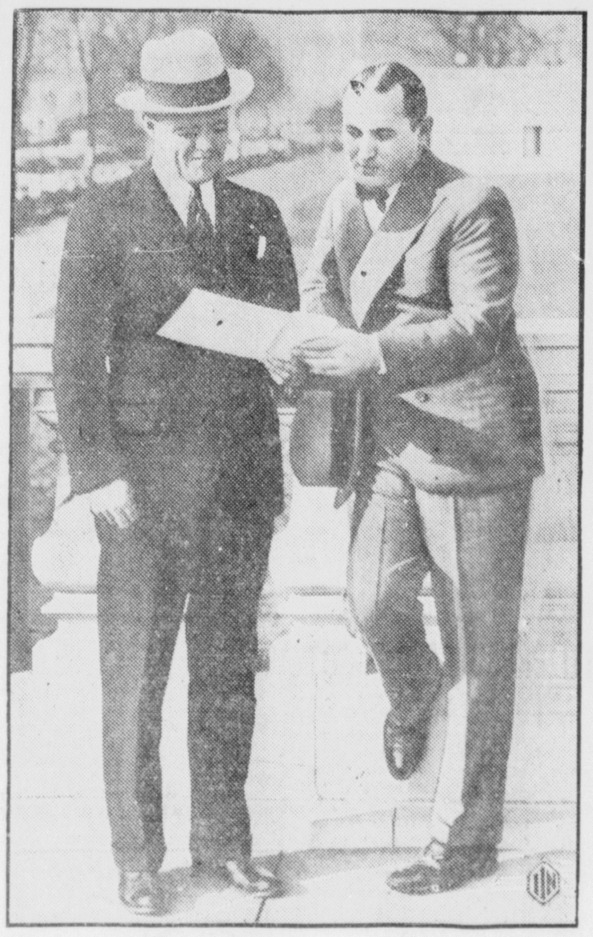

Moscow's Brand of Soviet 'Culture'

"Red Thursday" in the United States was marked by lawless demonstrations of organized Communists in our principal cities. The celebrations were carried out under direct orders from Moscow. Above pictures show the brand of Communism in Moscow at the present time, which is alien to the ideals of the United States. At the extreme left is pictured the Church of Semonov in all its majestic grandeur, one of the most historic churches in Russia. (Above) The grand old edifice where pious Muscovites were wont to pray, after it had been demolished by crazed Soviets in their rush toward atheism. (Lower) Soldiers of the Soviet "Red Army" following the teaching of the Godless Age in Russia, removing sacred paintings from churches.

Santa Claus, 'Believe It or Not'

Some weeks ago Robert L. Ripley drew a "Believe It Or Not" cartoon showing that there really was a Santa Claus. The Santa Claus referred to was a little town called Santa Claus, Indiana. Every Christmas the postman there is obliged to handle thousands of letters and packages addressed to Santa Claus. The matter was brought to the attention of Congressman Harry E. Rowbottom, of Indiana, who is sponsoring a bill for a raise in salary for the obliging mailman. Rowbottom (left) is shown reading the bill to Ripley.

For and Against 18th Amendment

Their defense of prohibition brought the organized dry forces of the nation again before the House Judiciary Committee with statements from several well-known people throughout the United States. While many of the nation's prominent women are in favor of enforcement of the 18th Amendment, many are also straining every effort for its repeal. Above is pictured Mrs. Sabin and Mrs. Norton, noted political and social leaders, who denounce the prohibition act as a failure, while other prominent women, such as Mrs. Henry Ford, Mrs. Edison, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, are firm in their assertions that dry law aids business and morals.

White House Widows Still Active

Although we have only one man living, the Hon. Calvin Coolidge, who has had the proud distinction to serve as Chief Executive of the Nation, we have as pictured above some charming women who have stood beside their husbands during their respective terms of office and filled the important post of First Lady of the United States. That they have done so with credit to their high position is now a matter of history. Seeking no honors for themselves, content to bask in the reflected glory of their distinguished husbands, they still take a keen and active interest in the destiny of the country which called their husbands to the highest place within its power.

WAITRESSES WIN IN RACE LOTTERY

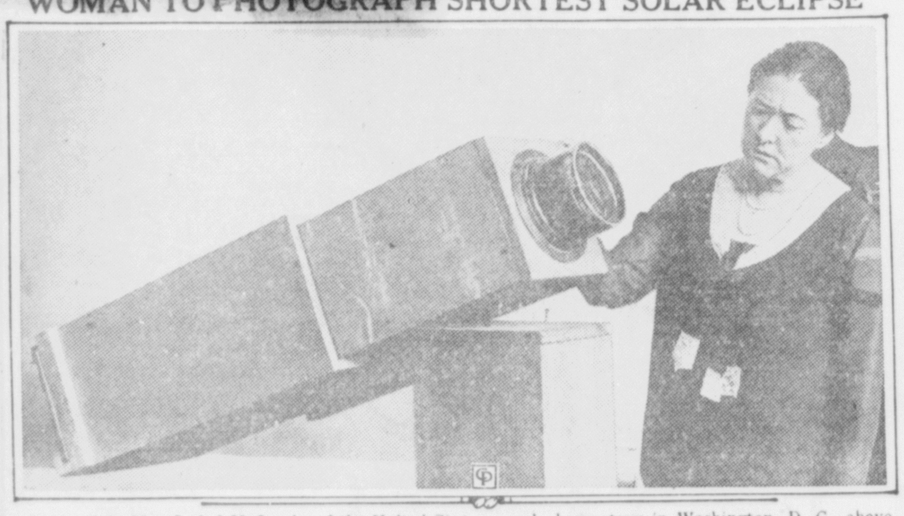

Three waitresses Bubbles Jobe, 21, and her sister, Sophie, both shown above, and another named Margaret (last name unknown), of New York City, chipped in 50 cents each to buy ticket No. 11942 in one of the Grand National lotteries operated in England. A cable has brought the news to them that they are winners of $12,000, each girl to receive $4,000.

WOMAN TO PHOTOGRAPH SHORTEST SOLAR ECLIPSE

On April 28 Mrs. Isabel M. Lewis, of the United States naval observatory in Washington, D. C., above, hopes to be able to photograph a total eclipse of the sun, to be visible in parts of the west only one minute and a few seconds. She plans to take the camera, which is shown above, to San Diego to make her picture.

English Murder Trial

English newspaper readers have been avidly devouring accounts of the trial of Sidney Harry Fox, above, for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Rosalie Fox. They refer to the case as the Room 66 murder trial at Lewes.

Beer War in Hoboken, N. J.

The presntation is being made by the Misses Helena Gentner and Leona Walton, in prepation for the Elk's first annual stampede, at which "Jeff" will act as master of ceremonies.

"Dead" May Live

Believing that her son, Marlin Pritchard, formerly of Vincennes, Ind., whom she thought killed in action in France, in 1918, is alive and in an African military prison, Mrs. E. J. Pritchard, 76, now of Cushing, Okla., has requested the American Legion to attempt to obtain his release. She received a body believed to be that of her son and buried it, in 1921, but recently received a letter from a French Foreign Legion soldier who said he was her son. Photo shows the Legionnaire whom Mrs. Pritchard believes is her son.

BOUND TO FARM FOR 57 YEARS

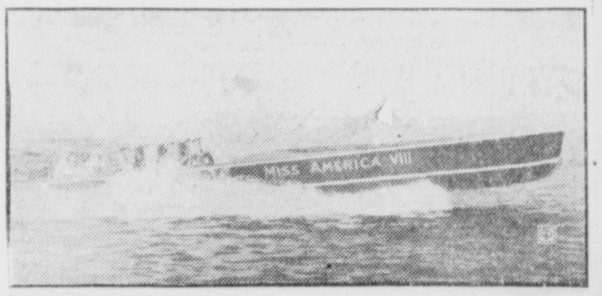

Faded after 57 years of seclusion on a lonely farm near Middle Haddam, Conn., Lily Wilson, 60, doesn't want to leave her home now. When her father, Peter Wilson, died recently she left the farm for the first time to travel by auto to the hospital bedside. He had bound her to the land since bringing her from Sweden at the age of three. Photos show the farmhouse and Lily Wilson.

Boom Gains Speed

ONE-TIME FAMOUS ATHLETE FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE NOW

DENVER, April 8—Twenty years ago Ralph Glaze was a name to conjure with in the world of sports—All-American football star of Dartmouth, big league baseball pitcher and noted athletic coach.

Twenty years and the name of Ralph Glaze has faded from the glory of the sports pages to reappear among the sordid records of the courts.

Mrs. Ralph Glaze filed suit for divorce in district court here recently. Glaze was not here to receive the summons. He is a fugitive from justice, sought on a larceny warrant charging him with disappearing with the automobile his wife sold while Glaze was in county jail, serving a federal liquor sentence.

Ralph Glaze—the name was a household word in Colorado twenty years ago. He was one of the first Denver boys to go out and make a name for himself in eastern collegiate circles. He played end on the University of Colorado football back in 1902. He also could pitch baseball. He finished his career at Dartmouth in a blaze of gridiron and diamond glory. Walter Camp picked him for All-American end, and several critics have hailed him as the greatest American end of all time.

"I saw Ralph Glaze go down the field for Dartmouth against Harvard in 1906," said Deputy District Attorney A. J. Reynolds. "I was a Harvard man. How that lad could carry the ball. Dodging right and left, plunging through interference, eluding tackles, he went the whole length of the field for a touchdown."

It was Reynolds who filed the larceny complaint against Glaze in March on complaint of one A. F. Bendix. Mrs. Madeleine Emigh Glaze, according to Reynolds, sold the car to Bendix and later borrowed it back. Glaze, his thirteen year old adopted daughter, Miriam, and the car are gone.

For five years Glaze played big league ball. He was with the Boston Americans—the Red Sox.

Glaze later turned coach but was unable to impart the secrets of his own athletic greatness with any degree of success. He coached at Colorado State Teachers College and at Colorado School of Mines, Texas Christian University, Lake Forest, Ill., and at several smaller schools.

JUNIOR PLAY CAST RESUMES PRACTICE

Play practice for the annual junior class play at Xenia Central High School was resumed Monday after a week of spring vacation during which time only one practice was held. "The Poor Nut," under the direction of Clyde Shumaker and Miss Olive Allen, is one of the most recent stage hits and played in New York for a number of weeks before being reproduced throughout the United States.

It is a three-act comedy with an interesting love story running throughout the whole play. The setting is at Ohio State University and the play was written by a former Ohio State student.

The play will be presented on Thursday and Friday nights, April 24 and 25 at 8:15 o'clock. Tickets will go on sale this week and will be reserved at Sayre's drug store any time after Tuesday noon, April 22.

Star Gazing

BY RADIE HARRIS

CHARLES CHAPLIN

is the greatest magician of all times. Produced a derby and cane out of the London slums. And became one of the outstanding geniuses of the twentieth century.

Born in England, forty years ago. His mother hoped that someday he might be the Rev. Charles Spencer Chaplin. Nearest he ever came to gratifying new ambition was when he delivered his famous sermon on "David and Goliath" in "The Pilgrim."

Is capable of earning a living at many things but prefers acting to any other vocation in world. Plays violin expertly with left hand. Awakens his neighbors by playing the pipe organ at ungodly hours of the night when he is all alone.

Adores giving impersonations in every language including the Scandinavian. Can't speak a word of any of them but imitates so cleverly that everyone is hood-winked into believeing that he is a superb linguist.

Loves Puddings

Has an Englishman's love of puddings. Eats them—and stewed fruits for lunch every day. Always smacks his lips and says, "That's what one's system needs, especially prunes cooked with lemon peel."

Is color blind but doesn't or won't acknowledge it. Red is only color he recognizes as actual.

Talks brilliantly on style and charm of authors whose books he has never read.

Doesn't enjoy a party unless he is center of attraction. P. S. He always is.

Lives alone in ten-room house in Beverly Hills, attended by five Japanese servants. Cuts his own hair.

Is a tennis enthusiast. Plays at all hours and practices shots by himself in the middle of the night under flood of lights with his valet to knock the balls back to him.

Has worn the same style shoe for the past twenty years—buttoned with cloth top. Made to order for him in Los Angeles.

Does a perfect tap routine and is a swell ballroom dancer. Prefers to sit at ringside table and watch couples glide by, focusing all his attention on young girls.

Is rarely recognized off screen. Once during a trip to Mexico visited a motion picture theater where "The Gold Rush" was playing. Pretended to be very relieved when nobody "spotted" him, but actually was rather upset about it. Before he left, couldn't resist temptation of disclosing his identity.

Loyal to Staff

Owns dozens of watches, rings and scarf pins. Never wears any of them. Selects his handkerchiefs and neckties to harmonize with his mood.

Has had the same studio staff for the past ten years. Still carries Edna Purviance on his pay roll.

Is a vegetarian in theory. Lectures at length about it and then gorges on thick steaks and chicken curry.

Likes to discuss his picture with all his friends before starting it. Swears everyone to secrecy and thinks he is being very confidential.

Will put off working on the slightest provocation. Is the only actor who can remain off the screen for a period of years and still hold his public.

Has been married twice and has two sons. Is only in love with life.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED IN DAMAGE ACTION; VERDICT VACATED

The $2,650 damage verdict recovered by George H. Baker, 78, Hivling St., in his $10,125 personal injury suit filed against Robert Seaman, Mishawaka, Ind., former Antioch College student, based on alleged permanent injuries suffered by the aged man in an auto accident last June 26, has been set aside by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy, who granted the defendant's motion for a new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence.

Although ordering the previous jury verdict vacated, Judge Gowdy overruled a defense motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and also denied an application of the plaintiff for permission to amend his petition to conform with the evidence.

The damage action was an outgrowth of an auto collision at Detroit and Church Sts. Baker claimed that he was driving south and at the Church St. intersection he signalled that he was about to make a left turn onto Church St. Seaman, it is claimed, driving north, crashed into the auto and dragged it for a considerable distance, injuring Baker seriously.

MANDAMUS CLERK OF BOARD TO COLLECT MONEY JUDGMENTS

Preparatory writs of mandamus to compel Carl Merrick, as treasurer of the Beavercreek Rural Board of Education, to turn over to Walter Hess and Fred McClain, moneys collected by a tax levy to pay previous court judgments obtained by them are sought in suits filed in Common Pleas Court Monday.

The board had previously been ordered to make restitution to Hess and McClain for tuition fees and transportation of their children, who attended Xenia Central High School.

Hess recovered a judgment for $340 and McClain was awarded a judgment for $255 against the board October 27, 1928.

When the board refused to pay the judgments the plaintiffs filed mandamus actions compelling the defendant board to authorize a tax levy to pay the amounts due.

The latest mandamus actions charge that the levy was made, the money was collected and turned over to the board but that Merrick, as treasurer, refused to pay the money to the clerk of courts.

Attorney F. L. Johnson represents the plaintiffs.

JUNIOR HIGH WILL PRESENT OPERETTA HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

The annual Junior High operetta will be presented in Xenia Central High School auditorium Friday night, April 11 at 8 o'clock.

The production "Aunt Drucilla's Garden," will be presented under direction of William Hugh Miller, musical director in the city schools. The operetta is a musical comedy in two acts with an interesting plot.

Practice has been progressing rapidly and the play is expected to be a greater success than that of last year. There is a total cast of about ninety in the play. It is seldom that junior high students are given the opportunity to show their talent as singers but once each year they present an operetta that is always worth the price of admission.

The proceeds from the operetta will go to finish payment of the piano. The regular admission price of fifty cents will prevail and seats may be reserved at Sayre's drug store Thursday noon. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Junior High School. The cast for the production is as follows: "Aunt Drucilla Rogers," Margaret Weiss; "Aunt Prudence Rogers," Grace Alloman; "Nilda," Martha Lampert; "Pat," Earl Short; "Bob," Harold Fiste; "Tad," Earl Overstreet; "Tiny Little," Marjorie Clark; "The Gang," Fred Hook, Clinton Adair, Earl Jeffries, Chas. Kersher, Edwin Luttrell, Clarence Harner, Donald White, Arnold McCoy, Bob Foley, Clark Rout, Chas. Weingart, David Cherry, Philip Stiles, Richard Luce, and Charles Bone; circle of girls: Veda Smith, Annis Hunt, Marie Kafory, Margaret Secrest, Imogene Goodwin, Lillian Jenkins, Marjory Garber, Janis Leamen, Virginia Babb, Rachel Bell, Jane Liddle, Mable Bath, Susanna Guyton, Evelyn Jones, Jean Compton.

HIGH HAT — A RADIO ROMANCE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY — Author of "THE FLAT TIRE"

© 1930 by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Elanda Lee, 20, from Jardon, Georgia, after four years in Atlanta singing in a small radio studio, goes to New York with WWBC, a hook-up. She is high-hat, and wants to sing opera. Here she meets Suwanee Collier, a charming, jolly young ukulele player. Later the son of the owner of WWBC, Gregory Du Pont, takes her up. Carmel Prevost, a society girl, wants Greg and Elanda's job. Her latest move is to invite Elanda to meet Lord Percival Dusenberry. Elanda forgets a date with Suwanee because she is so excited.

Greg comes as Elanda and the lord are leaving. He rushes her into the elevator before she can explain.

Greg resents her interference when she tells him Elanda is a poor little social climber with no background. He leaves in anger.

Suwanee and Greg meet at Elanda's on Sunday afternoon.

Andree,. Elanda's girl friend's baby, rushes out of the bedroom to Suwanee, and he sings her to sleep to quiet her. Greg later makes fun of him for it, and he and Elanda have their first quarrel when she defends him. She doesn't know why she has done it.

Du Pont, senior, recommends her for Miss La Paloma in the Paloma Soap Hour.

Lord Dusenberry calls to see Elanda at the studio.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

"Oh, I say theah, Elanda!"

Elanda turned to confront Lord Dusenberry who had slipped up behind her in the studio. He laughed shrilly, very much pleased with himself.

"Old Dussie thought he'd get in a bit early and hear you broadcast! A bit of a surprise—wot?"

"It's awfully nice of you, Lord Dusenberry," Elanda motioned to a chair. "Sit down and we'll go as soon as I'm through."

She sat down beside him—and he looked brightly around the studio, adjusting his monocle and stretching his neck so that he would not miss a detail.

"Jolly swell place, wot? A perfect setting for my little American beauty."

Several of the musicians heard him and the drummer coughed to keep from laughing. Elanda felt a bit self-conscious but what did she care? Of course, they wouldn't think he was charming. American men always laughed at gallant manners. They didn't know any better!

Lord Dusenberry made himself conspicuous in his admiration for Elanda. He was bending over her hand when Suwanee came in. Suwanee stopped dead still. Elanda looked up quite casually:

"Good evening, Mr. Collier."

He swallowed a laugh:

"Good evening, Miss Lee. You're looking well."

She could have strangled him. There was such merriment on his face that no one could mistake the fact that he was floored with the scene of the lanky Englishman in evening clothes, spats, a carnation in his button hole and a monocle in his eye, paying suit to Elanda Lee.

Her throat felt dry when she excused herself.

"I'll sit over here now. It's almost time to go on. Will you excuse me?"

He got up elaborately:

"Certainly, my deah, with reluctance. Great reluctance."

Suwanee sat down. It was almost too much for him. The visitors in the studio stared and the musicians tuned their instruments busily.

The climax came when the flute player raised his flute and tooted looking very, innocent, the first bars of "God Save the King." Suwanee hurried from the studio to double up in the hallway with laughter. Elanda froze with chagrin, but sat stonily.

The orchestra was playing the opening number of the program when Suwanee came back in. He did not look at Elanda. He didn't dare. So he sat with his head down, as though he were in a deep study.

As a matter of fact he was. He was trying to remember where he had seen the Englishman before. Elanda had told him Lord Dusenberry had only been in America a few days. Perhaps, therefore, it was a case of resemblance. But now and then he stole a glance at him—and the oftener he looked the more certain he was he had seen him. It was an annoying puzzle.

It seemed hours to Elanda before time for her to sing. She was thankful when she heard the announcer!

"And now, Miss Elanda Lee, mezzo, will sing for you that old familiar favorite, dear to all our hearts, 'Home Sweet Home'."

Elanda stood slim and girlish, hands held lightly to her ears to shut out the blare of the orchestra, and sang. She never had looked so lovely to Suwanee before. Her semi-evening gown of lemon georgette fell in graceful folds around her slender ankles and her auburn head darted fire from the light suspended above her. A fit of unreasoning jealousy swept over Suwanee.

But what was the use? Elanda would do as she pleased. She was not the type you could sit down and reason with. Too stubborn and sure of herself. Perhaps she would burn her fingers severely some of these days. Then she would realize, like a stubborn little child, that one could not play with fire without suffering the consequences.

Suwanee looked at the gangly Englishman—sitting, devoted and foppish, not taking his eyes off Elanda—and was seized with a desire to knock the look off his face with a doubled fist. Surely Elanda could not so completely lose common sense in her determination to find position and wealth as to take seriously a man with a "goofey looking map like that." Those were Suwanee's thoughts put into words.

When Elanda finished she picked up her yellow Spanish shawl from the chair and motioned for Lord Dusenberry to follow her quietly. The program was not yet finished.

"Dussie's little American beauty must be almost starved," he took her arm and caressed it lovingly when they were waiting for the elevator.

She found she did not want him to touch her and pulled her arm away gently.

"I'm not very hungry, but it is almost 8 o'clock isn't it? Let's eat some little place where we can get through early and go down to my house for a little while. I'd like you to meet my girl friend and her husband."

She knew the English were formal about girls being properly chaperoned and thought it would make a better impression if she showed him she wanted him to meet her chaperones before his suit progressed too far.

Dixie had wiggled for a half hour, fearing she was not going to have the pleasure of getting a look at the lord when the door bell rang. She grabbed Bang and pushed him toward the door:

"Here comes the dook! You go. I'm afraid I won't back into the room properly or something. Do get down on my knees or anything?"

"Not in my house, you don't. You're queen here."

Elanda was trembling with nervousness when she introduced him. Would Dixie behave for a change and not embarrass her and ruin her chances? Lord Dusenberry beamed on Dixie and Bang and kissed Dixie's hand:

"So you are the chawming lady in whose hands the care of my little American beauty has been placed? Jolly, jolly."

From that moment on Bang had his doubts about Lord Dusenberry. He sounded a bit cracked to him. But Dixie was a lamb. It was to her they owed the entire success of the evening. For, innocently, she sat on the edge of her chair and asked him wide-eyed:

"Oh, Lord Dusenberry, have you ever shot big game in Africa? My husband is wild to be a hunter of lions and things."

Lord Dusenberry sat back looking delighted:

"Madam, you are addressing one of the biggest game hunters of the continent. The queen herself has placed the ribbon of the bawth on me for my exploits with the gun in India."

And so far into the night they listened to his tales.

The next day Greg Du Pont came back.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

Frances K. Johnstone, flicker dilettante, and Irving Fisher, erstwhile Broadway star and featured singer in Ziegfeld's production of "Sally" starring Marilyn Miller, will be married May 25 at the Little Church of Heather in Glendale, Calif.

Until recently Irving Fisher was a familiar Broadway player, but he has lived in Hollywood for the last year, and has been writing some songs. Miss Johnstone comes from a famous American stage family—the Frank Mayos. The movie actor, Frank Mayo, is her cousin. Her mother is in pictures and her older sister, Isabel, is a picture agent.

Frances is 23 and has never been married while Fisher is 38 and has been married before. They met a year ago at a party given for Dorothy Janis in Hollywood and it has been that-way with them ever since. They plan a honeymoon, either to Panama or to Europe.

Polly Moran, the popular screen comedienne, is trying to outEdison the great inventor of that name.

Polly, cognizant of the fact that countless thousands have suffered for years from juice in the eye as they ate their breakfast grapefruit, has invented a juice protector a la Ed Wynn.

Polly has not attempted to learn why juice makes straight for the human eye instead of spattering any other portion of the anatomy or the surrounding territory. Ed Wynn invented a protector that worked like a window blind and which could be pulled down in front of the eyes when attacking grapefruit.

Polly, however, has invented a glass shield like the windshield on a flivver, which is attached to the plate and intercepts all juice aimed at the eyes while at the same time permitting free visibility of the attacking grapefruit. The picture of Polly shows her with the invention.

Marie Prevost is home from the hospital again where, a week ago, she underwent an operation.

Miss Prevost has had four or five ear operations thus paying for her years as a comedienne with the Mack Sennett Bathing Beauties. Making comedy after comedy with water scenes and at all hours, she contracted ear trouble.

Marie has lost quite a bit of weight. She will appear soon in a new picture.

Answering the report of his engagement to Winnie Lightner, William Collier, Jr., said he would like to meet Miss Lightner. "A man should know his fiancee, you know," he said. There's evidently nothing to it.

ILLINOIS AT POLLS TUESDAY TO DECIDE SENATE CANDIDATE

makes it imperative that each side take extra precautions against fraudulent voting. Thousands of volunteer watchers will be on duty in the 7,117 precincts from sun-up until the polls close at 5 p. m.

The Chicago papers blazoned forth this morning with the announcement that Police Commissioner Russell was summoned to the state's attorneys office last night and given this stern warning:

"You will be indicted before the end of the week if you fail to control your police at the polls!"

The police department is under the Thompson administration which is generally supporting Mrs. McCormick's candidacy.

The states attorney, John Swanson, is a Deneen lieutenant, who has been charged by Mrs. McCormick far and wide this week with using his power of indictment to further the Deneen candidacy.

Both candidates campaigned right up to the finish line—hectic day meetings in loop theaters and then the final appeals over the radio at night. Both publicly declared their confidence.

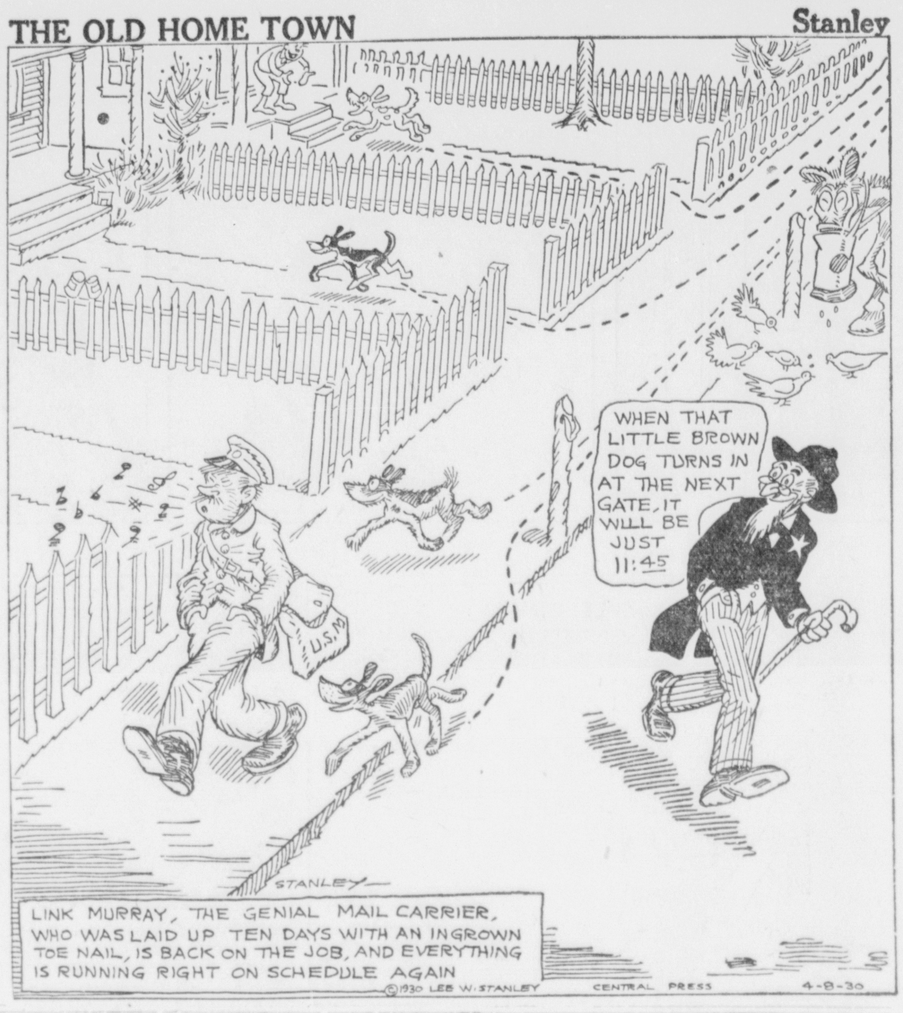

"I feel perfectly happy over the situation," said Mrs. McCormick. "I am confident my election is assured. If there is any attempt to steal the election here in Cook County I will be in court the day after election and apply for the appointment of a special state's attorney and a special grand jury to prosecute those engaged in the conspiracy."

And from Senator Deneen this:

"I was never more confident of victory. We have had larger meetings than ever before in a primary contest. The hospitality and good will of the people from one end of the state to the other show a friendly sentiment that will be evident at the polls.

Mrs. McCormick voted this morning near her farm-home at Byron, Ill., and then motored into Chicago for the finals. Senator Deneen remained in Chicago and voted here.

HERE COMES THE CENSUS MAN

Read These Questions Over And Be Prepared To Answer Them—And Quickly

Are you ready for the visit of the census enumerator?

To get ready in the approved fashion and make yourself popular with the census taker, be prepared to answer quickly the questions he will ask you.

You can give the enumerator assistance and save him and yourself time, by writing down the answers to the questions so that you are prepared to meet his inquiries rapidly.

Census takers for Xenia and Greene County have been appointed by W. H. Story, Springfield, supervisor of this district and will begin their "question and answer game" here as soon as they receive their final instructions.

If you want to be prepared for the census taker, marshal the answers to the following questions:

1. Your name.
2. Your relationship to the family (whether the head of family, wife, son, daughter, or uncle, etc.)
3. Whether your home is owned or rented.
4. The estimated value of your home, if owned, or the monthly rental, if rented.
5. Is there a radio set in your home?
6. Do you live on a farm?
7. What is your sex?
8. What is your color or race?
9. What was your age at last birthday?
10. Are you married, single, widowed, or divorced?
11. What was your age at first marriage? (For married persons only).
12. Have you attended school or college any time since Sept. 1, 1929?
13. Are you able to read and write?
14. Where were you born?
15. Where was your father born?
16. Where was your mother born?
17. What is your native language? (For foreign-born persons only.)
18. In what year did you immigrate to the U. S.? (For foreign born.)
19. Are you naturalized? (For foreign-born.)
20. Are you able to speak English?
21. If you are a gainful worker, what is your occupation?
22. In what industry are you employed?
23. Are you an employer, employee, or working on your own account?
24. Were you actually at work yesterday?
25. Are you a veteran of the United States military or naval forces, and if so, in what war or expedition did you serve?

If you answered "No" to question 24, you will also be asked whether you have a job and are merely temporarily out of work, or whether you have no job at all. If you have a job, you will be asked:

1. How many weeks since you have worked on your present job?
2. Why were you not at work yesterday (or on the last regular working day)?
3. Did you lose a day's pay by not being at work?
4. How many days did you work last week?
5. How many days in a full-time week?

If you have no job at all, you will be asked:

1. Are you able to work?
2. Are you looking for a job?
3. For how many weeks have you been without a job?
4. Reason for being out of a job or for losing your last job.

People living on farms will also be asked to help the enumerator fill out a separate farm report.
